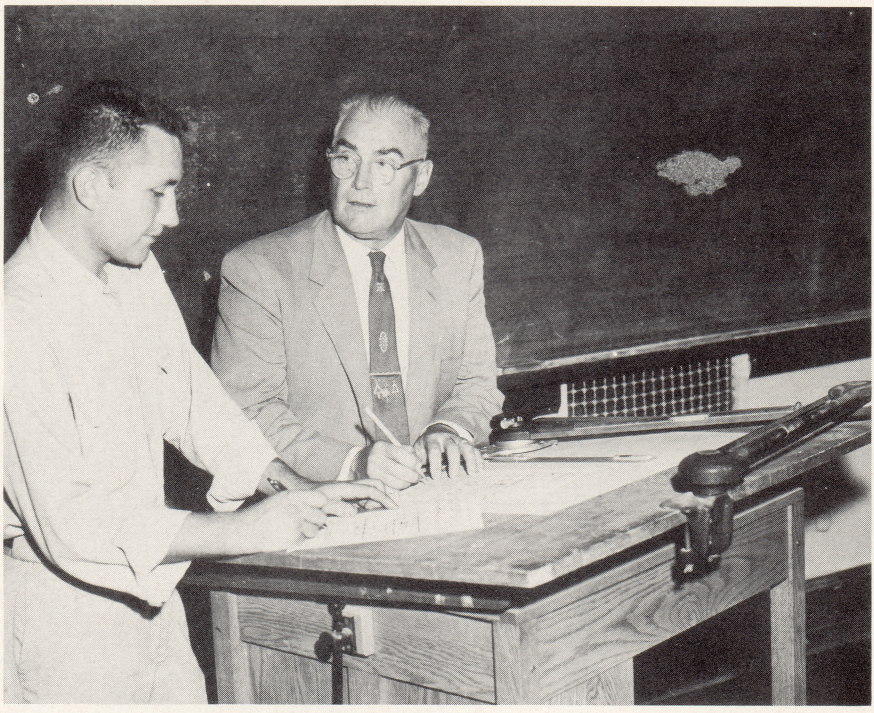
The Evolution of Industrial Arts at EMC

BY GEORGE A. WILLOUGHBY

Head, Industrial Education and Applied Arts Department



Alumni of Eastern Michigan College and others concerned with higher education in Michigan might well wonder at times whether the various name changes that have taken place in recent years are truly indicative of certain fundamental changes in the character of our educational offerings. Perhaps, a close look at the name change of an instructional unit at Eastern will provide a reasonable answer.

Sometime ago, the State Board of Education approved the change in name of the Industrial Arts Department to the Department of Industrial Education and Applied Arts.

Prior to this time, the idea of Industrial Arts had generally been accepted as being a part of general education dealing with the uses of various materials, tools, and machines for the benefit of society.

This original notion has been much modified by the introduction of the newer concept of Industrial Education which implies a more thorough utilization of available technical information, and certain processes and methods dealing with industrial production and distribution. The term Applied Arts in this context indicates the wider application of the use of the materials, tools, and mechanical devices of Industrial Education to individual development, and understanding on all educational levels.

The name Industrial Arts grew out of the philosophy that such a department offered instruction in the arts of industry, such as metalwork, electricity, various areas of woodworking and others.

It is, perhaps, interesting to note that this concept of industrial arts grew out of the needs of society both during and after World War I. Previous to this time, working with the available tools—the concept of manual training—was considered the most important discipline in this area.

Eastern Michigan College was one of the first schools to expand the prevailing concept of manual training and to offer a true Industrial Arts program.

A constant re-evaluation of the work of the Industrial Arts department at Eastern has been maintained throughout the years until the impact of its program has been noted even beyond the college. Extensive application of the concept of industrial education in the field of elementary school work, in occupational therapy, special education, general education, and field service courses have given the departmental offerings a wider range of effectiveness that can be described by the title Industrial Arts.

More recently, much thought and planning have gone into the drawing up of technical courses for pre-engineering students, and for the student who is preparing for technical work in industry not necessarily leading to a degree.

In addition to the work planned for curricula organized for the undergraduate student, the departmental offerings at the graduate level have been considerably broadened. In this area, the department has pioneered in short term or terminal courses designed for the non-specializing student and which will give him a practical insight into the potential of industrial education as a learning medium for both the elementary and high school student. It is expected that a program leading to a Master of Arts degree in Industrial Education will eventually be offered at Eastern.

The title Industrial Education and Applied Arts is thus a more precise description of the current and expected potential of the department. As the college has twice during its history changed its name in deference to population pressures and expanded functions, thus the departments of instruction must grow and change in nature.

Plans are well advanced for a completely new facility to house the department. Such a building will provide room for the full development of the present and projected industrial education program.

Such a building as an integral part of the overall college building program will also coincide with the mushrooming growth in student population at Eastern Michigan College which will, undoubtedly, bring with it an even greater demand for modifications in an everchanging program.

Administrative Staff Changes at EMC

The elevation of two deans at Eastern Michigan College to vice presidents, and the establishment of three new deanships became effective July 1, 1957 by action of the State Board of Education. Bruce K. Nelson, formerly dean of instruction, was named vice president for instruction and William C. Lawrence, formerly dean of student affairs, was named vice president for student affairs. Basic responsibilities in the college organization will remain as they have been.

Elevated to deanships in the instructional area were R. Stanley Gex, who had been head of the education department, to dean of teacher education and James H. Glasgow, formerly director of graduate studies, to dean of graduate studies. In the area of student affairs, Donald M. Currie who had been associate dean of student affairs was designated as dean of students.

President Eugene B. Elliott pointed out that the new positions represent growing responsibilities and expanded duties coming from the rapidly increasing enrollments at the college. The basic organizational structure adopted on January 1, 1956, when Nelson and Lawrence were appointed dean of instruction and dean of student affairs respectively, will still be in operation. Under this plan, four major areas of responsibility were established: instruction, student affairs, business affairs, and planning and development.

Dean Gex will have responsibility for the whole teacher education program under Vice President Nelson. The departments of education, special education, and the three laboratory schools—Roosevelt, Lincoln and Rackham—will be grouped together as an administrative unit. Deans Glasgow and Currie will have the same basic responsibilities they had as director of graduate studies and associate dean of student affairs respectively.

Replacing Dean Gex as head of the department of education is Kenneth H. Cleeton. Dr. Cleeton received his Bachelor's degree and his Master's degree from the University of Missouri and has had thirteen years of administrative and teaching experience in the public schools of Missouri and Colorado. Since 1946 he has been professor of education at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Mr. Nelson who joined the EMC staff in 1954, formerly served as superintendent of the Lincoln Consolidated School District.

Mr. Lawrence, who also joined the EMC faculty in 1954, had previously been an associate professor of special education and a clinical psychologist at the Rackham School.

Mr. Gex came to Eastern Michigan College in 1954 from the University of Cincinnati where he was an associate professor in that institution's teachers college.

Mr. Glasgow served as head of the geography department at EMC from 1939 to 1956 when he was named director of graduate studies.

Mr. Currie, who joined the EMC staff in 1947, will continue to serve as director of placement and was, until the fall of 1957, director of alumni relations. (Noted elsewhere in this issue.)

Two other administrative staff appointments which took effect July 1, 1957, was the appointment of James S. Weeks as coordinator of guidance, and Ralph F. Gilden as director of admissions. Mr. Weeks, formerly on the faculty of the University of Buffalo, will be in charge of all counseling and guidance services, and the college testing program. He will work in the student affairs area under Vice President Lawrence. Mr. Gilden has been associate registrar at Eastern Michigan College since 1955. He joined the college staff in 1942.

New Science Building Opens

Occupation of the new Strong Physical Science building is taking place gradually as this is written. The Physics and Chemistry Departments moved in early in September and the Geography Department, which will occupy space in the building until their own wing is completed some years hence, are moving in at the opening of classes. The lecture hall is almost completed but, as this is written at the opening of school, is not yet in use. The Physics and Chemistry Departments are engaged in the housekeeping problems of finding places to put their equipment and supplies. Everyone at the college from President Elliott on down is extremely happy with their first look at the new building.

The old science building is undergoing extensive remodeling, the $120,000 that the college received for this remodeling being the total of capital outlay funds received for the current year. Alteration plans for the old building include new floors, new lighting, the equipping of two new laboratories for the Natural Sciences Department, and general rehabilitation. The general classrooms in the building, which will be used by many departments, are expected to be ready for occupancy around October 15 and the laboratories will be ready for occupancy in the middle of November.

According to James E. Green, Director of College Planning and Development, preliminary planning for the Fine and Industrial Arts building and for the Physical Education building is continuing. The college received preliminary planning money on these buildings in 1956-57 and, although no further planning money was available for the current year, the planning is continuing with the objective of having preliminary plans ready for the opening of the legislative session.

In capital outlay, for the next year, the college will be requesting planning and construction funds for the Fine and Industrial Arts building, the Physical Education building, and the classroom wing of the Strong Science building. In addition, planning funds will be requested for a teacher education building and preliminary planning for an instructional services building.

Elliott Portrait Presented

Another important project of the Alumni Association came to a successful conclusion with the presentation of President Eugene B. Elliott's portrait to EMC on Alumni Day, Saturday, June 15. The oil painting, which was executed by Mrs. Alice Reischer of Ann Arbor, was presented in behalf of the Alumni Association by Judge Arthur F. Lederle '09, Chief Judge of the United States District Court at Detroit. In acknowledging the generosity of the Alumni Association, President Elliott spoke of the portrait as a symbol of the alumni loyalty and good will that means so much for both the past and the future of the college.

HOMECOMING
Saturday, October 26, 1957

As this issue goes to press, preparations are well underway for the traditional Annual Homecoming. The student committee, under the leadership of Chairman Joe Rippetoe, is again hoping for a record turnout of alumni. Many alumni will want to return in time for the class games at 4:00 P.M. on Friday, October 25, and the activities of that evening. Saturday's activities begin with the parade at ten o'clock.

An innovation this year is the plan for a noon Alumni Association Luncheon at Charles McKenny Hall immediately following the parade. Since this is a departure from plans of previous years, please get your reservations in to Earl K. Studt, Director of Alumni Relations, by October 22. It is hoped that this can become an annual event—let's get out and support it!

The game this year is with Southern Illinois University and kick-off time is 1:30 P.M. Residence hall "cider-sips," fraternity open-houses, and the annual homecoming dance at 9:00 P.M., will provide plenty of post-game activity.

We'll see all of you at Homecoming!

New Alumni Relations Director

Among several administrative changes at Eastern Michigan College effective at the outset of the 1957-58 academic year is a change in responsibility for direction of the college program of Alumni Relations. President Elliott has announced the appointment of Earl K. Studt '32 to the position of Director of Alumni Relations in addition to his duties as Associate Director of Field Services at Eastern. He succeeds Donald M. Currie '47 whose appointment as Dean of Students became effective on July 1. Dean Currie concludes nearly ten years of responsibility for alumni affairs during which the regular publication of this Newsletter and the establishment of an alumni mailing list of 13,000 addressograph plates have been particular achievements. He has also served as Secretary of the Alumni Association and an elected member of the Board of Directors of that group. His present term of office in that body will not expire until June of 1959.

Mr. Studt and his wife, Olive Jessup Studt '32, are not newcomers to either the Alumni Family or the college. Prior to completing his degree here, he taught in the Clinton County Schools and at Pewamo, Michigan. Between 1932 and 1936, Mr. Studt taught in Roseville and Mt. Clemens. His alma mater called him back in 1936 to a position as supervising teacher in the Lincoln School. He was later promoted to the position of Principal at Lincoln which was the position he held when he was invited to join the staff of the Division of Field Services in 1951 as Associate Director. His campus colleagues and the hundreds of alumni who already know him well agree that Alumni Relations are in good hands under Earl Studt's leadership.

Alumni Honored at State Fair

Following the custom of previous years, the Michigan State Fair this year selected twenty-one members of the teaching profession to be honored guests at the Teachers' Day luncheon. Among those honored by receiving Teachers' Day Awards were the following nine alumni of Eastern Michigan College:

► MRS. MARGARETTA VEDDER BUELL ('41), outstanding teacher of civics and history at East Detroit High School, is president of the East Detroit Federation of Teachers and past president of the American Association of University Women of East Detroit. She is also a member of Somac Toastmistress and Phi Kappa Sigma.

► RAYMOND E. MROCH ('36) has been teaching in Detroit for ten years, and now is on leave to serve full time as president of the Detroit Education Association. Prior to World War II he taught out-state in Michigan and was Superintendent of Schools for three years at Hubbardston and Riverdale. He has served as an aerological officer in the U. S. Navy, and at present holds the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve.

► JOHN P. EVERETT ('96) is now retired after fifty years as a teacher in Michigan and has served as chairman of the legislative committee of the Michigan Retired Public School Employees Association. His teaching positions include: public schools of Ypsilanti, principal of Grass Lake school and high schools of Pontiac and Adrian, superintendent of Mt. Clemens schools, assistant professor of mathematics at Eastern Michigan College (which granted him the honorary degree of bachelor of pedagogy), professor of mathematics and chairman of the department of mathematics of Western Michigan University with thirty-one years of continuous service.

► DON S. WHEELER ('20) started his professional career in 1922 as principal at Schoolcraft. Later he became head of the mathematics department and director of athletics at Walter French Junior High School in Lansing. He has been principal of Lansing Eastern High School since 1945, and is presently president of the Michigan Secondary School Association.

► HOMER LAGASSEY ('20) has had thirty years in the field of music education and many years of professonal experience as a pianist and conductor. He has been Program Director and Guest Conductor at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Choral Director on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, and for five years conductor of the ninety-piece Faculty Symphony Orchestra of Detroit. He is also a composer of note.

► MRS. MARION FARR BARTRAM ('52) has spent the past few years alternately teaching and raising a family. Mrs. Bartram was born of a long line of teachers. Her mother, grandmother, and great grandmother were members of the teaching profession. Presently teaching in the Lincoln Park system, Mrs. Bartram is past president of the Lincoln Park Federation of Teachers.

► MISS EFFIE MURIEL DOWNER ('13) was Professor of Education and Chairman of the Elementary Education Department of Wayne State University at the time of her retirement this year. She is nationally known among educators in the United States. Contributions made to the field of education by Professor Downer have been many and varied.

Frederick Alexander Memorial Fund

In memory of Frederick Alexander, the Detroit Alumnae Chapter of the Alpha Mu Sigma sorority has changed the name of the Alpha Mu Sigma Loan Fund to the Frederick Alexander Memorial Fund.

The sorority, which originated under the name of Harmonious Mystics, was organized as a musical sorority by the Wallin sisters—Alice, Maraquita and Winifred—in 1900. About 1922 the name was changed to Alpha Mu Sigma.

Many in the sorority were closely connected with Mr. Alexander and because of their devotion to him and their pride in his fine achievements and musical contributions to the college, they wish to honor his memory in this way.

The Fund was started on May 19, 1927, by a gift of $100.00 from Alice Rebecca Wallin, a graduate of Michigan State Normal College and then a teacher in the Highland Park High School. In a letter to President McKenny she requested that the money be used in the way it would be most needed and credit given to the Detroit Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Mu Sigma.

Contributions were made by the Alumnae Chapter from 1928 to 1937, with the addition of interest earnings bringing it to its present status. It is hoped that further contributions will be made by interested alumnae.

ALUMNIGRAMS

► FLORENCE CORBIN ('06), Associate Professor of Vocational Education at the University of Nebraska, retired in June. Miss Corbin joined the university staff in 1926, and three years later she was made head of the division of vocational homemaking education.

► LULU M. FAIRBANKS ('13), correspondent for Alaska newspapers, was elected president of the Seattle Branch of the National League of American Pen Women on June 28. She has just completed two years as president of Washington Press Women. Miss Fairbanks is a member of the Board of the Friends of Youth, the Seattle Historical Museum of Industry, the Foundation for International Understanding Through Students, the Pacific Northwest Authors Bookshelf, and a member of the Board of Business and Professional Women's Divison, giving aid to the Washington State International Trade Fair.

► ELLEN M. SOLOMONSON ('16) was elected vice-president of the National Education Association at the summer meeting in Philadelphia. This is an honor of which she has proven herself worthy through her many years of leadership in the Michigan Education Association as well as in the National Education Association. Many of our alumni will remember meeting Miss Solomonson in every corner of the state during her term as president of the MEA during the year 1953-54.

► MRS. JEANNETTE COFFRON IRWIN ('19), who taught at EMC for five years in the Music Department under Professor Alexander, has been teaching vocal music in the Detroit public schools. She recently composed a song in honor of Michigan Week, and is presently working on a music test for the grades.

► For his 20 years as organist and choirmaster of Fairmount Presbyterian Church, Cleveland Heights, RUSSELL L. GEE ('24) was honored by more than 400 persons at a surprise reception following the morning church service. Mr. and Mrs. Gee were presented a set of china dinnerware, table linens, a flowerbowl, and candlesticks as an official gift from the church. During the week, Mr. Gee is associate professor of music at Western Reserve University.
